Zydus' Q1 dose lifts vitals, but outlook stays fragile

April-June Qtr beat offsets some caution, yet US headwinds cap upside

RAM PRASAD SAHU
Mumbai, 14 August

Zydus Lifesciences delivered a better-than-expected 2025-26 (FY26) April-June quarter (Q1), particularly on the top line. This, coupled with launches and the prospect of margin improvement, led some analysts to upgrade their outlook. While sentiment remains positive and the stock gained over 3 per cent in Wednesday's trade, brokerages are cautious due to margin pressures and premium valuations. The stock is up about 12 per cent from its May lows.

Driven by its India and international businesses, the company recorded 6 per cent revenue growth in Q1FY26. While India sales rose 6 per cent, it was the international formulations arm that delivered the bigger lift, climbing 37 per cent on the back of consistent execution and growth across regions.

The US market, which accounts for 48 per cent of sales, grew 2.9 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y) and was flat in constant currency terms. Sequential growth was 1.6 per cent. Motilal Oswal Research, which has raised its earnings estimates, notes that despite competition in products like generic versions of the cancer drug Revlimid and the anti-inflammatory drug Asacol, Zydus reported sequential gains in sales and a steady Y-o-Y performance at $372 million. This was largely supported by solid demand in its base portfolio, new launches, and stable business from the generic version of Myrbetriq, a treatment for overactive bladder.

Alongside Myrbetriq, upcoming launches are expected to help the company sustain single-digit growth in the US, given the anticipated drop in Revlimid orders. While some new products are set to launch in FY26, most of the scale-up is expected in 2026-27 (FY27). The company said it has filed 15 of the 25 products in its pipeline, while Sitagliptin (Type 2 diabetes), which is already on the market, has seen early traction.

In the domestic market, the formulation business posted 8 per cent Y-o-Y growth, while the consumer wellness segment rose 2 per cent. Branded formulations outpaced the broader market, growing 9 per cent, led by key brands and new products.

The company has stepped up its focus on chronic therapies, with cardiology standing out in the quarter with 22.5 per cent growth. Chronic therapies now make up 43.7 per cent of the portfolio, up more than 420 basis points in three years, with the company retaining its lead in oncology.

Most brokerages, however, remain cautious. Antique Stock Broking notes that the company is evolving into a diversified healthcare platform with exposure to MedTech, biologics contract development and manufacturing, and innovation-led therapies. While this shift could justify a rerating over time, analysts Gaurav Tinani and Vamsi Hota believe execution and visibility remain critical. "FY27 poses a more challenging outlook, with potential revenue and margin headwinds arising from the loss of exclusivity in key high-margin products such as generic versions of Revlimid and Myrbetriq." Higher research and development spending, increased depreciation, and interest costs after acquisitions could also weigh on earnings, prompting the brokerage to maintain a 'hold' rating.

Given the risks to the US portfolio from mounting competition and ongoing litigation, analysts Tushar Manudhane and Eshita Jain of Motilal Oswal Research project an overall 5 per cent decline in operating and net profit from 2024-25 through FY27. They have a 'neutral' rating on the stock, with current valuations offering limited upside.

While Zydus has invested in multiple long-term opportunities, earnings growth is expected to slow after FY26 due to the loss of exclusivity for generic versions of Revlimid and Myrbetriq, says JM Financial Research. At current valuations of 25x FY27 earnings per share, the stock trades at a 10 per cent premium to the large-cap peer average, say analysts at the brokerage led by Ameet Chalke. It has a 'hold' rating on the stock.

GOLD SCALES NEW PEAK

Existing investors should book partial profits in yellow metal

HIMALI PATEL

Amid escalating trade tensions and a weakening rupee, gold hit a record ₹1,03,420 per 10 grams in Delhi on August 8, 2025. While existing investors should book partial profits to restore gold's allocation to its original level, new investors should enter gradually.

Why gold surged

Sustained buying by central banks remains the key structural driver of this rally. "Central banks purchased 290 tonnes in the first half of 2025," says Riya Singh, research analyst, commodities and currency, Emkay Global Financial Services. Heightened geopolitical uncertainty of the past two years has also played a part.

Tariff-related tussles have raised uncertainty. "Recent US tariff announcements briefly drove international prices to record highs of about $3,534 an ounce," says Puja Singh, chief executive officer (CEO), Manipal Fintech. Even as prices rose internationally, the rupee's depreciation against the US dollar made gold imports more expensive. Revised US labour market data, which erased 2,58,000 jobs, increased the odds of the US Federal Reserve cutting rates in September.

Rally expected to sustain

Experts believe gold prices may remain on an upward trajectory. "Sustained central bank buying, continued softness of the rupee due to a strong US dollar, and evolving trade dynamics could contribute to upside," says Riya Singh. If the weakness in US labour data sustains, it could propel the Federal Reserve to cut rates, depressing real yields.

"US economic growth will increasingly turn tepid and put pressure on the dollar index," says Sandeep Raichura, chief executive officer of retail broking and distribution and director, PL Capital. He adds that the long-term trend of de-dollarisation is expected to support gold.

More accommodative policies by central banks would support gold. "Safe-haven buying looks set to continue amid US tariff uncertainty, slowdown concerns, and possible increase in geopolitical risks," says Trivish D, chief operating officer, Tradejini. Puja Singh expects seasonal factors like festivals and weddings to support jewellery demand.

Potential headwinds

Some developments could hinder gold's rally. "If inflation proves persistent or US growth surprises on the upside, it could lead to a reversal of expectations that the Federal Reserve will ease interest rates," says Riya Singh.

Trivish adds that easing trade tensions and stabilisation of currencies could cool demand.

According to Puja Singh, elevated price levels might lead to some buyers deferring jewellery purchases, affecting retail demand.

Rebalance portfolio

Existing investors should review their asset allocation. "If, due to recent gains, the allocation to gold has gone beyond the target level, rebalance your portfolio," says Mayank Bhatnagar, co-founder and chief operating officer, FinEdge.

Do not exit completely. "Maintain an allocation of 8-12 per cent, as its role as a shield against inflation, currency weakness, and market shocks remains invaluable," says Charu Pahuja, group director and chief operating officer, Wise Finserv.

Investors may increase exposure to silver exchange-traded funds (ETFs). "There is a global supply deficit of silver while gold is at new highs. Investors can go for the relative safety of silver, which is both an industrial and a precious metal that can offer capital gains and diversification benefits," says Raichura.

Stagger purchases

New investors should not wait for a correction to enter gold. Instead, they should accumulate it systematically. "This can average out costs and reduce timing risk," says Bhatnagar. A long horizon is essential. Investors may use ETFs for liquidity and transparency and sovereign gold bonds (SGBs) purchased from the secondary market for long-term holding. "You get 2.5 per cent annual interest and pay no capital gains tax if held to maturity," says Pahuja.

RBI move on cheque truncation system: What it means for you

In a major win for account holders and businesses alike, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has announced a sweeping reform to the cheque truncation system. Starting October 4, cheques will be cleared within hours instead of up to two working days, transforming cheque processing into a real-time experience during business hours.

Why it matters to you

- Faster liquidity: Money from cheque deposits, not just electronically cleared payments, will now hit your account much quicker
- Better predictability: Same-day confirmation or dishonour reduces uncertainty in cash flows and personal banking.
- Bank accountability: If drawee banks don't respond within the deadline, the cheque is treated as approved, no more funds blocked by delay

- Lower Settlement Risk: Faster processing reduces the risk exposure for both customers and banks.

Cheques received by the branches shall be scanned and sent to the clearing house by the banks immediately and continuously during the presentation session, RBI said.

What to keep in mind

- Be alert to changes in your bank's handling of cheque deposits post-October
- If you deposit a cheque before 4 pm, expect a confirmation or settlement that same evening, provided the drawee bank complies.
